Inmate Handbook

Introduction

This handbook was produced to introduce you to Caribou County Detention Center. You are required to follow these rules. Because this handbook covers a broad range of information, policies changes may occur we cannot anticipate. Inmate rules that are added or revised after the date of publication of this handbook supersede the rules contained herein. This handbook provides you as guide. You are the one who determines what your time in jail is like. There are privileges for you if you earn them and penalties if you violate the rules of the jail.

For the first 24 to 72 hours you may be held in a holding cell pending movement to regular housing. Once you are moved to regular housing there are more activities to occupy your time. Along with the increased freedom and activities comes increased responsibility. You must comply with jail rules to be allowed to live in the housing unit.

If you have questions or concerns, feel free to address them to the staff. This can be done in the form of a verbal question or you may fill out an inmate request form. Caribou County Detention officers and staff are not allowed to give legal advise so please address all legal questions to your attorney.

Bonds and Bonding

All misdemeanors and most warrants (either felony or misdemeanor) have a set bond. If you were arrested on a felony, but without an arrest warrant, you must appear before a judge to have a bond set. A bond is money you put up as a promise to appear in court.

You can post a cash bond by paying the entire bond amount with cash, money order, cashiers check or travelers check. Personal checks and credit cards will not be accepted.

A bail bondsman can post a surety bond for you for a fee. Costs and fees are determined by the bond agency and the bondsman may require a co-signer guarantee the bond. Bail bond companies are a private business and between you and them.

A property bond may only be posted through the court. Your attorney can provide you with information about property bonds.

Note: There is a $10.00 bond fee for the first charge and $5.00 fee for every charge thereafter. If your bond is $100.00, you will need $110.00 to be released. THE $10.00 FEE MUST BE CASH AND MUST BE SEPARATE FROM THE BOND MONEY. PLEASE ADVISE FRIENDS AND FAMILY OF THIS WHEN ARRANGING FOR BOND. NO EXCEPTIONS WILL BE MADE AND BONDS THAT ARE NOT ACCOMPANIED BY THE SEPARATE $10.00 FEE WILL NOT BE PROCESSED. The $10.00 applies to the first charge or warrant filed against you and $5.00 for every charge thereafter. (If you have two charges against you, the fee would be $15.00 in bonding fees.)

Court Procedure

Arraignment

If you cannot bond out when first arrested, you will typically be arraigned within 24 hours, excluding weekends and holidays, after you are booked into jail. At your arraignment, the judge will explain the charges you are facing as well as the possible penalties and fines.

Court Appearance

All court appearances outside the jail will be arraigned by the court bailiff. You will not be allowed to take any items to court except court papers. All other items must be left in the housing unit.

Detention staff will not know when you are going to be arranged by the court. Therefore, they will not be allowed to tell you what time or day you must appear. The bailiff calls for the prisoners when the judge asks to see them.

If you have a scheduled appearance for a case in which you are not presently incarcerated for, it shall be your responsibility to notify detention staff as to the charge, the date you are scheduled and the jurisdiction you are going to appear in. If you appear in another court jurisdiction, it is the responsibility of that court to transport you for your court appearance.

Behavior in Court

You are required to adhere to all jail rules whether in transit, in a holding facility, or in court. When you appear in court, you are not permitted to communicate in any manner with non-court personnel.

The person you want to release your property to must have legal identification such as drivers license or picture ID when he/she picks up your property. Personal property left in Caribou County Jail will only be held for 45 days after your release from our facility or transferred to another facility.

Upon your release from jail, you will receive all of your personal property. If you have money on your account, a check will be issued to you. You may not transfer money or property to another inmate at anytime.

If it is still not resolved, you may ask for a grievance form. This form must be completely filled out and submitted to the Corporals or Sergeant. Normally an answer will be returned within a few days. If the grievance constitutes an emergency, you will be segregated and a jail supervisor will be notified.

If you wish to appeal the answer, you may file an appeal to the Sergeant or Jail Administrator within ten working days of the response.

Disciplinary

Disciplinary Procedures

There are two levels of discipline imposed for violation of jail rules. The basic punishment is as follows:

Minor Infraction: the loss of specified privileges for up to seven (7) days, loss of specific privilege(s) for a specific amount of time. The inmate will be notified of the charge(s) the Deputy makes against him and the sanction(s) that will be imposed. He has up to one (1) hour to request a review of the disciplinary marker by marking the appropriate slot and returning it.

Major Infraction: the loss of specified privileges for up to thirty (30) days (with more than one rule violation, fifteen (15) days per offense), including being locked down for twenty-two (22) hours and forty-five (45) minutes per day, the loss of any privileges including loss of good time, or sentencing enhancement per each charge.

Three minor violations within three consecutive months constitute a major violation. You will receive a write up for the minor violation.

Major violations will be given a disciplinary marker as soon as possible. If the violation constitutes a threat to the facility or other inmates, you will be placed in administrative segregation pending a hearing.

A review officer will meet with you and explain the charges to you. The review officer will explain your rights in regards to the charge and will listen to your side of the story. You may write down your version of the incident if you desire and return it to the review officer. The review officer will interview all involved people when applicable. If there is not adequate evidence to support the charge, or if the sanctions suggested by the reporting officer do not adequately address the violation, the review officer may dismiss the charges or change the sanctions being requested.

If you admit your guilt to the review officer and agree with the recommended sanctions, the process is complete and the sanctions will begin immediately.

If you deny or do not agree with the sanctions recommended by the review officer, you may request a hearing before a disciplinary hearing board officer. You will have a minimum of twenty-four hours to prepare for the disciplinary hearing.

If you do not agree with the decision of the hearing board officers, you may appeal the decision to the Sergeant or Jail Administrator. If you request an appeal the designee will review all documentation and make sure policy was followed. You will not personally meet with the Jail Administrator. The disciplinary hearing board officer will explain this right to appeal when he/she gives you the decision.

Lockdown status is a housing assignment that separates inmates from other inmates.

Inmates under lockdown status will be allowed out of their cells for one hour per day to shower and have exercise. The inmate can refuse exercise.

Inmates under disciplinary lockdown will lose one or more of the following privileges:

- Television

Sexual Misconduct

If you are sexually assaulted, you may report the assault by:

- Contacting a staff member.
- Submitting a medical kite.
- Submitting a grievance.
- Contacting a family member or friend outside the jail who can contact Detention Administration.
- Call the jail rape reporting hotline by dialing #9.

All reports of sexual misconduct will be turned over to detention administration for investigation.

Retaliation against inmates who report sexual assault will not be tolerated.

Brochures are available to explain you rights, the reporting process, and the investigation process. Ask detention staff for details.

Sexual contact or conduct between inmates is strictly prohibited.

Release

When you are released from jail, you will receive the personal property back that was taken from you upon your entry into jail, excluding money and items seized by authorities as evidence.

You must sign a form, which is part of jail booking information. This signature verifies that you have received your property back or are having someone pick it up within 45 days. After 45 days, the property will be destroyed. If any of the property is not received you must have a note on the release form with your signature and the releasing detention staff's signature.

Inmate workers and Work Detail

If you wish to become an inmate worker, you must make a written request to the detention staff on duty stating your desire to be allowed to work. You must state whether you want to be part of the inmate worker group or inmate work detail group.

Inmates who apply for worker status must be physically fit, disease free and no history of disciplinary problems.

Inmates who are assigned to kitchen, laundry area and work detail must have good personal hygiene and will have to be medically cleared for work.

Inmate workers may be removed from their duties at any time for any reason by direction of the shift supervisor on duty.

Work detail workers may be removed at any time for any reason by the officer in charge of the work detail.

Administrative Segregation

Any detention staff member may, upon notification by the detention supervisor, place an inmate on administrative segregation. Administrative segregation is a physical separation from all other inmates. This usually occurs to inmates who habitually disregard the jail rules and have shown they can not get along with other inmates and/or detention staff. These inmates will have been previously segregated for disciplinary reasons or will have been involved in a physical or verbal confrontation, which makes a security risk to have the inmate in general population.

Administrative Segregation also includes separating inmates who may be in danger if placed in general population or who may pose a threat to others in general population.
